Brooms up!

Quidditch has turned out to be one of Emory & Henry's favorite events. Over 125 members of the E&H community turned out to play and watch the Emory Activities Board's second late-night Quidditch tournament.

Using the International Quidditch Association's guidelines and rules, EAB built all the equipment needed and successfully facilitated the games under the lights on Fullerton Field. While watching the four house teams compete, spectators were treated to pretzel and candy wands and of course butter beer.

E&H Senior and current president of the Emory Activities Board Elizabeth Wassum loves that EAB plans events that bring the college community together.

I think that what makes EAB truly special is that we care about Emory, and we care about the people at Emory and we want to give them the best experience in college. And have them make the most memorable moments of their lives. And running around playing Quidditch, I think that's one of them.

The Activities Board is a student organization, so while there are students on the field or in the stands enjoying the Quidditch match, there are board members working behind the scenes to make sure everything is running smoothly. First-year Anna Dye, is one of those people. During the Quidditch match she called the game and provided commentary with announcer Josh Floyd. Dye talks about why students should get involved with the Activities Board.

EAB is a lot of fun. It's a really good group of people. We do a lot of stuff on campus. It gets you involved; you can do as much or as little as you want with EAB.

While the Emory Activities Board is always looking for new members, there are other ways to get involved. EAB President Elect, Thomas Gard explains.

We have exciting events coming up in the Fall. Even if you can't join the Board, the best way to support us is come out to our activities, so hopefully we will see you there.

So, whether it's Quiddich, Ghost Tours, a movie
marathon or a formal, the Emory Activities Board hopes to see you at an upcoming event.
